Language and Culture

PRESENTER: Subila Chilupula

This workshop is a short introduction to the role that culture immersion plays in language learning. It introduces how the relationship between language and culture influences politeness, kinship terms and idiomatic expressions across the globe. The workshop aims to give students an idea of how to navigate a diverse learning and working environment especially if they plan on studying or working abroad.

During the workshop, students will be encouraged to share their fears and opinions on language learning and study abroad programmes creating an interactive session.

Subila Chilupula is currently a PhD candidate at TUFs, researching politeness strategies of Bemba, a Bantu language. She has a strong background in applied linguistics, comparative linguistics, and cross-cultural communication.
